

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY 2021

#ChangeAGirlsLife by starting a book club

Donate to join a workplace book club and on International Women's Day get together to enjoy a thought provoking read. Below are some of our recommendations to get you started.

Reading Lolita in Tehran

This autobiography offers a fascinating portrait of Iran-Iraq war and gives us a rare glimpse, of women's lives in revolutionary Iran. It is a work of great passion and poetic beauty, written with a startlingly original voice.

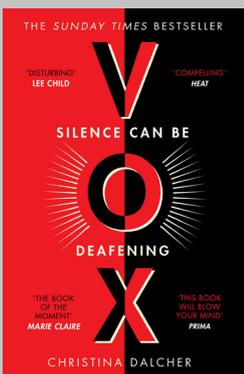

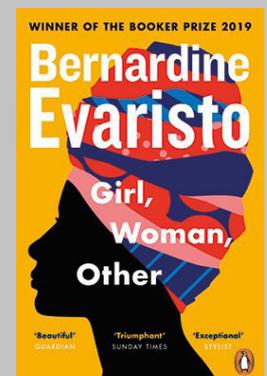

Let's Pretend This Never Happened (A Mostly True Memoir)

The bestselling memoir from one of America's most outlandish authors, Jenny Lawson is a hugely popular columnist and been called 'the funniest woman alive' (by at least three people), 'the most progressive women's voice of our time' (by an acclaimed feminist writer), and 'totally inappropriate' (by Marie Claire).

Girl, Woman, Other

Described as 'a love song to modern Britain and black womanhood' this joint Winner of the Booker Prize 2019 follows the lives and struggles of twelve very different characters through their years.

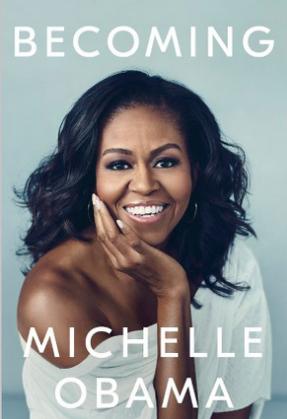

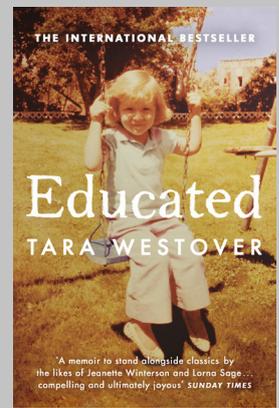

VOX

In an alternate America – where the government has decreed that women aren't able to read, write, work, or speak more than 100 words a day – a mother fights for her and her daughter's voices to be heard.

Educated

In her memoir, Tara Westover recounts her journey from her isolated Mormon family life in the mountains of Idaho to starting college with no formal education, and completing a History PhD at Cambridge University.

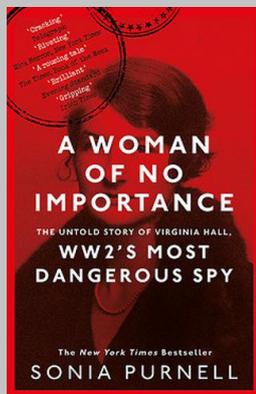

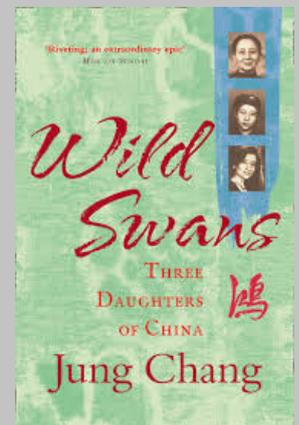

Becoming

Described by the author as a deeply personal experience, former United States First Lady Michelle Obama's memoir talks about her roots, how she found her voice, as her time in the White House, her public health campaign, and her role as a mother.

Wild Swans

Following three generations of women in 20th-century China; from sword-bearing warlords to Chairman Mao, from the Manchu Empire to the Cultural Revolution. Wild Swans is more than a family biography; it is a social history of China.

A Woman of No Importance

The true story of Virginia Hall, a Baltimore socialite who became the first Allied female spy to infiltrate enemy territory during WWII to establish the Resistance that changed how nations conduct their military intelligence.

Get involved this International Women's Day.
Share your favourite books with us.

WOMEN
SUPPORTING
WOMEN
Changing Young Lives
Building Futures

Proudly supported by princes-trust.org.uk